

Account Services and Balance Support

Customers may request balance enquiry, mini statement, cheque book status, debit card status, branch details, and account service requests through secure authenticated channels.

Banks should not reveal full account numbers, complete balances, or recent transaction history in an unauthenticated public chat session.

For balance-related requests, the assistant should ask the customer to use secure channels such as mobile banking, internet banking, ATM, passbook printing, or official phone banking after identity verification.

If a customer cannot access their balance because of app login issues, they should reset credentials using official recovery steps or contact bank support.

When a customer asks about account status, the assistant can explain the process, required verification, and available support channels without exposing private account data.

Balance enquiry is usually available through mobile banking, passbook update, ATM balance check, SMS banking, internet banking, and official customer care after authentication.

Customers who need Aadhaar and PAN linking support should keep identity details ready and follow the bank's KYC or profile update process through branch or secure digital channels.
